

BEAR VALLEY MOUNTAIN RESORT CHARGE AUTHORIZATION FORM

Resort Charge

Bear Valley Mountain is offering a convenient free service to season pass holders called "Resort Charge." This new feature is available to Bear Valley Mountain Season Pass Holders and virtually turns a season pass into a credit card to be used throughout the entire resort (excludes outside beer box, and Bear Top Beach) any day during the season.

How Resort Charge Works

Active Season Pass Holders must complete the Resort Charge Authorization section (below) or can accept the service through purchasing a season pass online at www.bearvalley.com. Once the completed form is received by our season pass office, your Customer Profile is updated in our point of sale system. This process allows your season pass to activate Resort Charge as a payment method at any of our point of sale/purchase locations. Resort Charge quickly accesses your credit card information kept securely on file through your Customer Profile and transacts the sale to the credit card instantaneously. You'll receive a credit card/transaction receipt and you're on your way. With just the scan of your season pass, you can enjoy food, drinks, retail, repair, rentals/demos and snow sport services. Leave your wallet at home, or sign your kids up and never have to give them cash again! Season Pass holders have the power to charge the mountain!

Resort Charge Authorization

I hereby give Bear Valley Mountain the authority to activate Resort Charge to my Bear Valley Mountain Season Pass. By doing this, I agree to accept all sales as final that are activated by the scanning of my season pass at Bear Valley Mountain's sales locations. In order to de-activate this service I must provide written instructions to Bear Valley Mountain's Season Pass Office, 7 days prior to service de-activation. I understand that if my credit card on file expires or reaches my credit limit over the course of the service/season, my resort charge will be de-activated until I give updated credit card information.
